

The Cursed Egg

By Julia Gong (12/07/2008)

There is a legend that there is an egg. The egg has a monster enclosed. The monster is an eleven legged creature with a talon of itself, legs of and eagle, and thorns of a serpent. This creature is called: "Sepergle."

In London, there lived a family, Sande, Chiron, Leo, and Safire. They were orphans. One night, as Leo was praying beside his last bit of wax he had of his candle, a wind of ghosts blew through his bedroom window. He called up his only Spirit Seer of his orphanage companions, Chiron, and found that he had the ability to FIND the legendary egg.*-

Chiron called up Sande, and Sande called up his little sister, Safire. Following Chiron, the others flew with the ghosts and down into a pit.

The pit was divided into several chambers. They had fallen into the chamber that held the legendary egg. The egg was about to crack. The ceiling of the pit closed, leaving the orphans to companion the monster. Sande, the OPENER, tried to open the pit, but it was too late.

Safire was the TAMER of the egg. She placed her hand on the crack of the egg, and said a rhyme. The egg cracked, and soon opened. She made eye contact with the enormous monster, and suddenly wished she hadn't SET it free.

The monster soon made Safire go out of the way, while then Chiron was conjuring the sides of the egg to form a wall, so they would still have time to escape. Leo and Sande were attacking the monster by now, to have been thrown out of the way.

Safire was helping Chiron with the conjure, and had succeeded in making two egg shelled walls. But, the monster was still fighting to throw things from the inside to outside, which made a comet. The Sepergle had then thrown it at Chiron, and killed him.

But, the rest had kept fighting. The Sepergle had by now, thrown over one thousand rocks out from his separate sealed chamber. That had been stopped.

The wind of ghosts had come back, freezing the separate chamber with eternal ghost pit ice.

Sande bravely went through the wind and into the chamber where the monster was frozen and sealed. The monster was still alive! He ducked a rock and dodged a comet.

Sande soon climbed onto the frozen monster, and tried to TAME the monster just like Safire could have done. Safire climbed through, leaving Leo to deal with comets. Safire tamed the Sepergle, and then took the monsters' ability to kill. Then, she thought, Chiron would come back to life again.

Then, he did come back. Chiron helped deal with comets with Leo, and conjured a top for the Sepergle. Then, his brother and sister could come out, while the monster could not, he thought.

Safire and Sande, as Chiron had not imagined, were not able to come out. The chambers in these main pits could not be WHALKED THROUGH if they had a top. Chiron had tried almost everything he could imagine to get his brother and sister out, but the right thing he'd not done.

The right thing was to go to the 'egged' chamber and say the rhyme he had said to get the top-except this time it would UNDO.

Meanwhile, Leo tried to go to another chamber, in which he succeeded in going to the controllers' room, which could lead to sealing in the monster forever, and rescuing his brother and sister. The controllers' room was made by the formation of the 13 planets: Soto, Nazis, Tes, Gluing, Nestkakto, Sparkle, Kara, Lentklo, Lester, Mondovi, Hurre, Gad, and Tallinn, by taking in a portion of each.

Leo had tried all the buttons on the panels, except the right one. The right one was hidden in the metal conjure bin.

When Chiron had finally made the right conjure, Leo had already pressed the button to make all conjures by humans to not work. Leo then discovered the hidden button right before Safire was about to get eaten. Leo immediately pressed it, causing the conjure Chiron did to work, and for the monster to stop what it was doing.

Safire was saved, but not all. The monster was in a daze, caused by the button, and if Leo pressed it again, Safire would be right back where she was. All was depending on Leo.

But gladly, Leo didn't press it again. The Sepergle was perched in place. Leo went back to a button he had accidentally forgotten, to kill the Sepergle. An alarm would sound if he pressed it. Should he?

The next sound answered his question. A big roar had pierced the air, so he fumbled around for a rock that he had gotten from his mother before she had died.

The rock could stop any alarms from sounding. Leo touched the button with the rock, and then he pressed the button. It was true-the alarm didn't sound. He quickly went back to the chamber they had been swept into. He found both his brothers and his sister staring at him with awe. He had SLAYED the legend.

"You pressed the button? I was just making friends with him! He made a roar of joy!" yelled Safire.

"I thought he was about to..."

"Besides, the button would sound an alarm! Did it sound yet?"

"It never will." Leo proudly took out his rock.

"Is that the one our mom gave you?" asked Sande.

"Yeah. The Emerald." Leo twirled the rock in between his fingers.

"Mother gave me the moon wire." said Sande.

"Mother gave me the Night Lily. It has the power to control all the elements." Safire chimed in.

"What did mom give you, Chiron?" asked Leo.

"I.....am...adopted." Silence followed the curt but trembling reply of Chiron.

"Did mother give you anything?" asked the yet but dazed siblings.

"Nothing of the sort....It is a magic built in X-ray compass."

"Oh, wow....WHAT!"

"What?"

"Yeah, what?"

"What's wrong?"

"I...just got a minded message from father. He said to smash all our gifts from mother and him."

"Why?"

"I don't know. That's all he said."

There was complete silence.

"I'm going to. Besides, it's father."

"I'm not," said Leo, "and don't ask why."

"I am. Father was so kind to me." said Chiron.

"Sande: are you?" questioned Safire.

"No. I am with Leo." said Sande.

"Fine, so don't...what?!?!"

"What did dad say?"

"He said the monster will dissolve if we do."

"Never mind! I will smash it." said Sande.

"Me, too!" agreed Leo.

"We still are." exclaimed Safire.

"So, when are we going to smash them?"

"I don' know."

"I do."

"When?"

"Right...now!" cried Safire, all smashing their precious gifts in harmony.

"I guess it dissolved?"

"Well, what was the use? I killed it already."
boasted Leo.

"What if people found out? We could be in big trouble, you know."

"The problem is, I don't know."

"Well, now you do."

"Leo and Safire, let's get a move-on!"

"And how do we do that, Chiron?"

"I'm...not sure."

"Well, don't say that then."

"SHUT UP!!!" yelled Safire.

"What?"

"I... think I know the answer."

"Tell us then!"

"Not until you guys are smart enough to look up."

"Oh, really?" asked Sande.

"Just don't make it hard and look up." Safire was annoyed.

"What if I don't?" asked Leo.

"Just look up." Safire answered.

All of them looked up, leaving Safire with a smile. A similar ghost wind was hovering above them.

"Oh, the pikie ditty fwom Tinkow Belw?" mimicked Leo.

"No, some chalk powder!" laughed Sande.

After that, Safire's smile dissolved.

"That is the warm wind of ghosts! They can float us back home! Don't you want to leave here and go home?"

"Yes, Tinker bell." murmured Sande.

"Yeah, girl." smirked Leo.

"I do, Safire, let's go through the suction and leave without them!" Chiron said, sounding surer than he felt.

"Then, if you say, Chiron, let us go!" said Safire, going in the suction.

"Wait, it is I, Chiron!" pleaded Leo.

"Chiron is already through the suction, Leo!" said the distant voice of Safire.

"Wait for us! We are sorry! We really are! Please! Safire! Chiron!" Sande pleaded with him.

"Too late." notified Leo.

"We are going to be dead!"

"Yeah, what are we going to do?" sighed Sande as he sat on the floor.

"And I am already a hero. I had pressed the hidden button to kill the monster."

"And I fought with you to kill the monster..."

"But we teased her."

"Yeah. And I started it by calling her tinker bell."

"It's our entire fault."

"And..."

"Hello. I am the warm wind of ghosts. I have come back to help you. Will you stop teasing your sister? She is a very clever one indeed. She talked me into a subject of magical creatures on the halfway ride home, but I came back to get you."

"Oh, yes, thank you!"

"Indeed!"

"Well, then. I have come back worthily. Climb into the suction."

"Sure. Thank you, again!"

"Alright! Thanks!"

* * *

"It's good to have you two back again," Safire declared on their swift journey back home.

At the orphanage school, Mrs. Declare asked them what they had done over the holidays. Safire looked at Chiron, Leo and Sande, and then began their amazing tale.

And guess what the orphans did when she finished? They stood up and clapped their hands.

When they grew old, they all remembered it as if it were yesterday.

The End